Funding gap for new campus widens

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

The budget shortfall for the planned new West Sacramento high school campus has expanded to $36 million, more or less, due to a more pessimistic appraisal of the state's share of construction costs. But school board members last week seemed optimistic about ways to bridge the gap.

Cost-cutting options included downsizing a planned auditorium or building one less classroom center – the district's estimate of the number of pupils the school will need to serve has been revised downwards drastically.

"We were going to have upwards of 3,100 (high school) students in 2010," commented board member Kevin Jones on that topic. "Then we went to 2,400, and now to 2,000, when we have 1,600 kids at River City High School now. At this point, why are we building a new high school?

The board and Superintendent Patrick Campbell also discussed ways to raise more money for the campus – including using leftover bond funds authorized by a previous "renovation" bond measure within Washington Unified School District, working on a capital campaign to raise money, and building a super-sized theater at the campus to generate revenue through rentals.

Campbell championed the theater rental idea, and also proposed financing mechanisms which might leverage the school district's property for cash.

The group also brainstormed on how to maximize revenue from about 30 unneeded acres in the school site, considering development ideas and considering selling it. Superintendent Campbell told the board that he had just learned that the city is interested in using the land for a park – and would pay the district "at least as much as we paid for it."

The council also debated minor points such as whether, as Campbell suggested, to allow a Borders bookstore or Starbucks to have a presence at the school library, and whether to allow the public to use the library. The discussion was part of a "workshop" on the school – not a final set of decisions.

Total cost of the school is now estimated at about $145 million if built as fully as it is planned.

The site is located just south of the Nugget shopping center in Southport. Construction is partly to be funded by a $52 million local bond approved by voters just for that purpose.

Local school administrators 'underpaid', says WUSD

Washington Unified School District on Thursday will look at raising administrators' salaries to "the median administrative salary" among comparable districts, with raises effective July 1. Information on the survey material used, or how the raises would be applied, were not included in the advance agenda report.

A staff report prepared by the district and its law firm did not provide details of the survey or salary changes, but estimated those salary changes to cost $200,000.

"The long-term consequences of selecting from less-talented administrative pools should be obvious," said the report, arguing that WUSD needs to start offering competitive salaries. "We have had turnover in important positions weakening our reforms and our success for students. Some of our talented administrators have left for other more lucrative positions, and we are lucky that some of our talented administrators have made a career commitment to Washington Unified."

"The data that documents our relative standing in administrative salaries is abysmal," the report added.

The school board meets at city hall at 7 p.m.

GROWTH PAINS

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

The West Sacramento City Council dealt with several growth-related issues last week, but most of the actions taken were more procedural than decision-making.

The council did ask for a chance to help shape the parameters of an environmental impact report being drawn up for the "University Park" development south of city limits. That proposal, from developers who hope to bring their acreage into the city, is moving through the city bureaucracy in a process driven by the developers' permit application.

Meanwhile, some members of the council haven't yet accepted the need to annex more land.

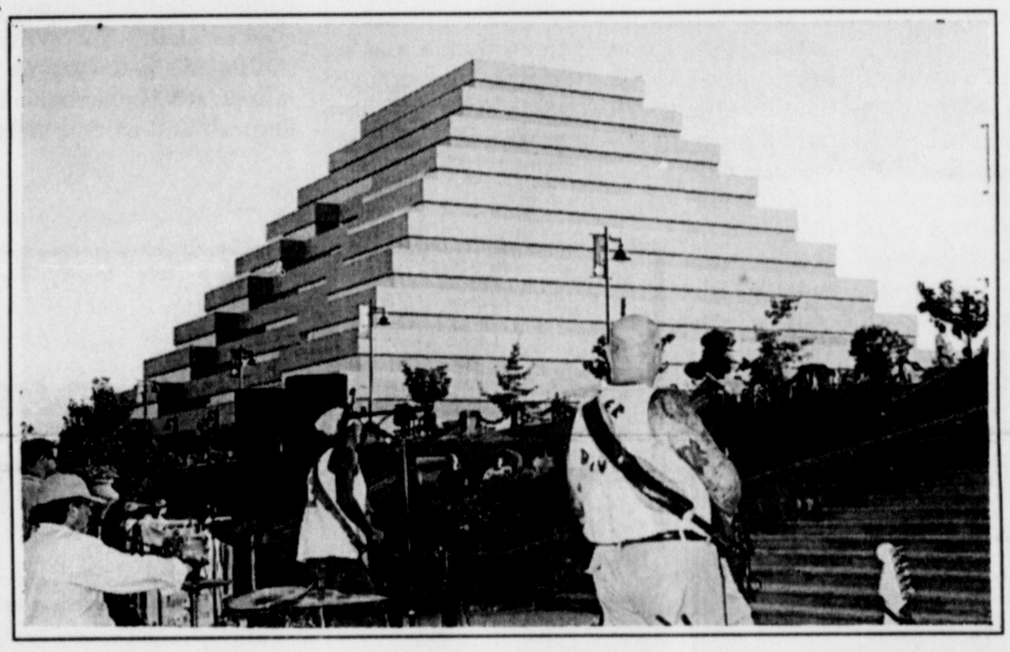

"University Park knows what they're getting into," said Councilman Bill Kristoff, who then alluded to the pickets who attended the meeting to protest more housing units requested for Southport. "They've got a very difficult row to hoe. You could see the placards out there today."

"What's fundamentally different about this (application) is that there's nothing at all contained in our existing plans," said Councilwoman Carolyn Castillo Pierson. "We could just say 'we're not really interested in this and you can just go to the county for zoning and infrastructure.' But that's not a good outcome because we lose all control."

Partly at the request of Mayor Christopher Cabaldon, the city staff was told to allow the council some input as to what issues are studied in the project's environmental review.

Also on the agenda was a proposal by ASB Properties and principal David Stroud to rearrange development (and increase housing units) on part of the Bridgeway Lakes development. The item will be subject of a council decision scheduled for next week.

'Harmony on the River'

'Beer Dawgs' performed July 5 as part of the city parks department's free 'Harmony on the River' concert series held Tuesday nights. For more details on upcoming concert acts, see the 'Local Scene,' back page. (Photo by Barry Blacklaw)

PICKETS told the West Sacramento City Council last Wednesday exactly what they thought about developer proposals that would increase local growth. A second group of pickets protested what they said was "police brutality" that led to the injury of a Spanish-speaking man during an arrest last month in the north-area. Police said the man refused to comply or show his hands, and fought officers when they tried to get him to comply.

Planting a local rest stop

By Steve Marschke

One of West Sacramento's longest-delayed little parks is now done, courtesy of a partnership between the city parks department and the community's Rotary Club.

Drive down Jefferson Boulevard at Michigan Boulevard (across from Safeway) and you'll see the freshly-planted new "Rotary Centennial Park," with young trees and greenery, as well as a bench to rest your weary legs.

Most of the planting was done by volunteers last month.

"We had 25 Rotarians, three of their children and about nine city employees putting in landscaping on June 11," said Wayne Enke of the Rotary Club. "There were five 15-gallon trees, 55 5-gallon shrubs and 417 1-gallon plants. And on Friday, June 17, eight of us went over there and spread 60 cubic yards of bark (for mulch)."

The park is meant as "a little rest area and focal point for the neighborhood," said Enke. It is named in connection with the Rotary's "centennial," or hundredth, year.

A state grant arranged by the department of parks director Don Schatzel (a former Rotary president) covered most of the park's expenses, Enke reports. But the club contributed funds to an architect, as well as providing labor.

There are a couple of items still to come to the little rest stop.

"There will be a sign there that will coincide with other city signs," Enke said. "It will say 'Rotary Centennial Park' and also have the city logo and Rotary logo. And we still want to do one more thing – there's an artist in Clarksburg named Roger Barry, who has designed a sculpture for the park. We are trying to figure out how to get it funded and installed. It is difficult to describe – it looks like a big figure-eight, and it's stainless steel and fairly large. Some people call it the 'infinity' sculpture because it looks like the symbol for infinity."

The park has been on the drawing board for eight years, said Enke.

"Denice Seals, Barry Kalar and I probably put in about 50-60 hours just during the planning stages," he commented.

Motel owners object

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A proposed new ordinance to regulate security, cleanliness, record-keeping and other aspects of the local motel industry was sent back into negotiations by the West Sacramento City Council on Wednesday. Industry representatives said the proposal had flaws. They had earlier declined a city request to adopt self-regulating standards.

The ordinance, modeled after one from Oakland, is a response to the "tremendous variation in standards" created by local motels' plummeting market and their frequent "attempts to compete for the lower end of the hotel business," said Maureen Daly

All-star game tonight

Capping off "All Star Week" at West Sacramento's Raley Field is this year's Triple-A class All-Star baseball game scheduled to begin at 7:05 p.m. tonight.

The game will be televised beginning at 7 p.m. on ESP2.

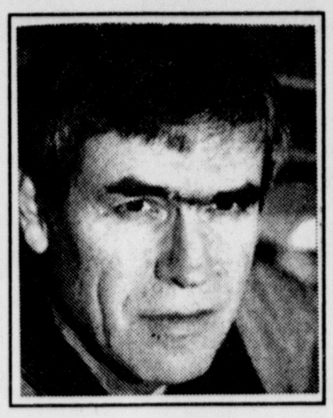

On the field representing the local River Cats squad will be outfielder Matt Watson, pitcher Victor Moreno, Manager Tony DeFrancesco, trainer Walt Horn, and the "voice of the River Cats," Johnny Doskow.

The All-Star game is not expected to return to this locale for another 30 years.

Triple-A baseball is the highest rung of the minor league structure. The River Cats are the farm club of the Oakland A's pro baseball team.

My Back Pages

Because some of our most trusted politicians and their advisors were less than truthful with the nation in the run-up to the Iraq war, and because those very same individuals have now pretty successfully morphed the war in Iraq into one big "war on terror", it's difficult for many Americans to know exactly how they feel about the whole mess. At least that is what a friend of mine was trying to explain to me the other day.

Later that evening, as I was reflecting on that conversation, it dawned on me that I should have said some of the following when I had the chance:

I bet the vast majority of Americans aren't confused at all about what is going on it Iraq. Americans of both political parties are pretty smart people, and they now know that the real reason we went to war wasn't because of weapons of mass destruction, but rather because our political leaders thought it would be a walk in the park, and because they seriously thought they could seed democracy into that part of the world with the end of a bayonet. But now that we are there, most Americans simply believe we have to stick it out, because there is no other option that makes much sense. And to apparently reinforce that belief, we are continually being told by our political leaders that all we need to do is be patient and supportive of our policy in Iraq, and before long there will be hundreds of thousands of properly trained and equipped Iraqi troops and policemen eager to take over the struggle -- and then our kids (some of them already on their second tour of duty) will finally be able to come home.

You know, of all the manure that has been generously spread around to cover up the fact that going to war in Iraq was one of the worst foreign policy decisions ever made by a president (and consenting Congress) of the United States, this often-repeated fairytale about the Iraqis soon being able to take charge of the situation themselves is the one "misrepresentation" that smells the worst.

If you will turn your attention for a moment back to the late 1960's and early 1970's, that was the same exact mantra our politicians (mostly Democrats at that time by the way) continually used to explain our "end strategy" for getting out of Vietnam. All we had to do was keep "Vietnamizing" the war and all would be well. And as someone who got to see Vietnamization up close and personal back in 1969 and 1970, I have vivid recollections of some of those so-called well-trained and equipped South Vietnamese troops who served alongside my unit from time to time. I can still remember wishing I had a weapon as new and shiny as the ones most of them carried, not to mention the just-out-of-the-box jungle fatigues and boots they usually wore. They all looked like absolutely wonderful soldiers, at least until they were asked to fight. Then you just couldn't count on them or their officers to do what was needed to be done. They were obviously on the battlefield to collect a paycheck, not fight to the death for a cause they barely understood or believed in. And when America finally did leave Vietnam, after about a decade of diligently training the South Vietnamese to take over the struggle, it took the Army of the Republic of Vietnam hardly any time at all to cash in their chips and call it a day.

The dirty little secret about all wars is that those who believe most strongly in the cause (the politicians who start the wars) quickly hand the actual fighting of the darn things over to ordinary folk, which I guess is understandable on some level, but unless the vast majority of those ordinary folk actually believe in the cause, wars can go south in a real big hurry. And just like the poor, unemployed South Vietnamese kids who signed up to save our bacon in the Vietnam War, the "soldiers" we are currently training and equipping as fast as humanly possible in Iraq are not -- I repeat -- are not going to be the answer to this tragic mess we have gotten ourselves into.

Then what is the answer, is of course the logical question. Unfortunately, sometimes the answer to a question, is that there is no answer. But what will likely happen is the very exact same thing that happened in Vietnam. After countless lives have been lost, not to mention hundreds of billions of dollars that could have been spent in so many better ways here at home, a new politician will come on the scene (as President Nixon did way back when), and find a politically-correct way to declare victory and get us the hell out of Dodge.

Our current crop of political leaders were supposed to be the guys who had learned all the terrible lessons of Vietnam, and maybe they would have if most of them hadn't been hiding out in colleges and the National Guard while the actual fighting of that war was raging. Instead, we find ourselves on the verge of yet another military quagmire, and when I listened to President Bush on television the other night urging the nation to stay the course and that all would soon be well once the Iraqis were properly trained and equipped, I did give him credit for one thing; his presentation was much better than Lyndon Johnson's used to be when he made the very same speech over and over again back in the 1960s.

'The rest of the story'

During one of our company's weekly meetings, someone brought up his interpretation of interest-only loans. That opened the door for all of us to chime in with our thoughts and feelings about this relatively new and gaining speed phenomena .The gist of the outcome was that it certainly helps those who only plan on being in a home for a short amount of time. It also helps with qualifying those individuals that otherwise wouldn't qualify for traditional fixed rate programs because of the size of mortgages these days. There was many more points brought up in this conversation that would be too long, but we all concluded that for some it is great and for some it is terrible, only a well informed borrower can make that final decision.

An interest-only loan is just what the title says, you are paying on the interest only part of the loan, and your payment leaves nothing for any principle reduction. For example, suppose you have a $300,000 mortgage and were comparing interest only to fixed rate, and lets further suppose that the interest rate was the same, say 5.5%, fixed rate for 30 years. The fixed rate payment would be $1703.00 and at the same 5.5% interest only option your payment would be $1375.00. So with this example you can see the enthusiasm for this payment being $328.00 less. This does sound very attractive to pretty much everybody, but what happens at some time in the future when the bank says, "enough of this, we want our money back"? Usually that will happen in the third, fifth, seventh or tenth year, depending on the type of loan you signed up for.

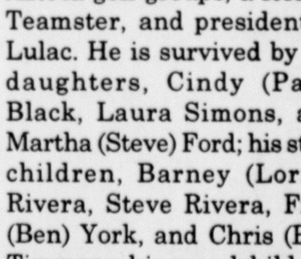

So to be completely informed with all your questions regarding interest only options, I would love to help you and guide you through all your questions. Remember, "Lots of Questions, One Company, One Answer".

Jill Jackson's HOLLYWOOD

Lindsay Lohan

HOLLYWOOD ... I'm singing the blues, because there's very little real news in Tinseltown at the moment. Gossip, yes. Hard news, no. The gossip is always about Leo, or Tom, or Angelina and Brad, or Nicole and whomever, or Britney and baby, and, of course, there's ALWAYS a Hilton. ... Also, the push is still on for Emmy, with very little filming for the big screen at the moment. However, Billy Bob Thornton is about to shoot "Peace Like a River," based on the book by Leif Enger about an American family that gets into a deadly spat with neighborhood thugs. And guess WHO is producing the film? Brad Pitt, that's who. These two should certainly have things to discuss other than the direction of the film, since Billy Bob was the one who let Angelina get away.

And still on the subject of Brad and Angelina, I hated "Mr. & Mrs. Smith." Too much shooting, car chases, violence and building demolition. Too much frantic noise and overpowering sound track. Not nearly enough of just Angelina and Brad and their relationship. And I still don't know who was what and why!

To Martha J. of Holbrook, Ariz. Yes, I would say Angelina Jolie is the biggest femme star in Hollywood today, with Nicole a close second. And that would include acting ability, box-office pull, beauty, talent, etc. Now if Julia decides to come out of motherhood for a while, all this could change.

I kid you not. There was once a Russian actor by the name of Vsevolod Illareconovitch Pudovkin. He had many, many movies to his credit. I came upon his name while looking up something else. From now on I will NEVER complain about having to look up the spelling of Jake Gyllenhaal when I talk about him and sister, Maggie.

For light summer reading, Hollywood is enjoying "Soapsuds" by Finola Hughes and Dibgy Diehl (Ballantine). Finola, known to many as Anna Devane on "General Hospital," and Digby bring us a fun and frothy novel about life behind the scenes on a daily soap opera. ... And "They're Not Your Friends" by Irene Zutell (Three Rivers Press) about life as a celebrity gossip journalist. In this one you'll learn that what seems to be a dream job to outsiders is not always so dreamy.

BITS 'N' PIECES: Cedric the Entertainer looked smashing at the Hollywood premiere and party for "The Honeymooners." All dolled up in a straw hat with a red band to match his red bow tie. But nothing can match that big, broad smile. ... In answer to the girls who have asked: I haven't asked Brad what he used to get that gorgeous blond color, but I do suspect it's good old peroxide. ... For me, NBC has hit an all-time low with "I Want to be a Hilton." And that's all the space it will get in this column. ... Interesting to analyze Tom Cruise's relationships. Always the mate of the moment is the only one, and then all of a sudden, pfffft, kerflooie. Ask Mimi or Nicole or Penelope. Maybe this time with Katie it will hold. For a while, anyway. ... And the good news is Leo is all healed, and there will be no scar where the fan hit him with a can. ... Watch it, Paris! There's another young, slim, trim sexy blonde name of Lindsay Lohan who could be stealing your thunder. ... And speaking of Lindsay, guests were treated to corn dogs and cotton candy at the after preem party for "Herbie Fully Loaded," in which she stars. ... Finally, won't it be great when Britney drops her bundle, and we won't have to look at all those pictures of her tummy pooched out into a pouch?

Serving the mentally ill:

Grant for Yolo County shelter

Assemblywoman Lois Wolk announced this week that the California Department of Housing and Community Development awarded a $1 million grant for the construction of a shelter for the mentally ill in Yolo County.

Emergency Housing and Assistance Program Capital Development (EHAPCD) deferred loan funds totaling $1 million were granted to the Yolo Community Care Continuum (YCCC) for the construction of a 14-bed, 5,600-square foot shelter at 580 Kentucky Avenue in Woodland. The Safe Harbor Emergency Shelter will serve individuals experiencing a psychiatric crisis.

YCCC, a non-profit agency that has provided community-based programs in Yolo County for over 20 years, currently runs a temporary shelter by the same name. The new shelter will add 8 beds, handicap access, and a private room for counseling.

"Safe Harbor will provide needed shelter and rehabilitation for our community's mentally ill," said Wolk in a press release. "This grant has given these vulnerable members of society another sanctuary where they can get the help they need."

"This grant is really a great cause for celebration," said Kate Hutchinson, executive director of YCCC, in the press release. "We have been raising funds for this project for over 5 years, and we've had tremendous community support... There's a tremendous need for Safe Harbor. Without these types of services, these individuals would either be homeless or hospitalized. The services also provide a cost savings to the county and are more convenient for our clients."

YCCC will help contribute the remainder of the approximately $2.3 billion required to build the Safe Harbor Emergency Shelter—along with the cities of Woodland and Davis, and Yolo County. The group plans to break ground on the project next month, finishing in April of next year.

Funding for the Safe Harbor shelter is part of approximately $40 million in EHAPCD funds scheduled to be awarded statewide in 2004-2005. The monies were made available by the passage of the $ 2.1 billion Housing and Emergency Shelter Trust Fund Act of 2002, which aims to provide emergency shelter, transitional and permanent housing for homeless individuals and families.

from the WWII generation left in that island's people -- they're going to need it. I'm afraid that they're coming to realize just a bit late that, even in the interest of freedom of dissent, allowing the vociferous advocacy of the violent overthrow and destruction of their way of life to go unpunished and left to fester is no longer an option, even when done by so-called religious leaders. This is happening in an ever increasing population that refuses to acculturate into the various western countries to which they emigrate. Rather, these immigrants demand obeisance to their customs by their new hosts. Customs which seem to include a 7th century death-cult mentality which is hell-bent on the complete annihilation of western civilization.

Some will say, here and abroad, "It's Bush's fault", or "It's Blair's fault", etc. I say, tell it to the Hindus of India or Ceylon; the Buddhists, Christians or Jews in the Middle East; Indonesia; North Africa and elsewhere. Go ahead, tell the Armenians of the joys of the Ottoman Empire. I dare you.

They tell us, "You defile our lands." Which means anything from the Ottoman Empire's old borders to the entire world. "Convert or die" they say. Just remember, to them, "Some are more equal than other's." I say, "Tell it to the Marines."

Bad ideas

My last letter to the Editor, two weeks ago, I tried to inform the community of the importance to question some of the decisions regarding the new high school design. After attending the "special" boarding meeting this past, Thursday, I feel even more passionate about people becoming involved. I have great concerns about the comments by some of the Board members to "go with the whole enchilada, we'll find the funding later" as well as some of the Superintendent's ideas to "borrow against District properties".

I feel the community needs to know that the 900 seat auditorium is now considered the 9 million dollar Theatre that the Superintendent thinks can be rented out every night at a high rent rate to generate revenue. He also made the comment that "the Theatre is not for District use". Yes, you read it correctly. I left a message at his office to get clarification on that statement but have not heard back from him as of this writing. I will say it again, we need an auditorium that would enhance our Music and Drama Departments to benefit the kids at the high school.

The Superintendent also had another "idea" for revenue and joint-use. He feels we should put a Starbucks and Borders Book Store in our high school library. He also feels it should be a community library. When questioned about the security of the internet for such a plan, his comment was "that's one of the problems, we block too many things out". Hello, don't we have security measures in place to protect our kids and keep them from going onto sites they shouldn't? Maybe he needs to be reminded of the child predator that was recently arrested for seducing a child from, what most parents think is a safe website, "MySpace.com". Who will provide the added technology, books and staff?

Many people I've talked to were under the impression that the "old River City" would be a second Jr. High. The Superintendent thinks we should look into making it a sports complex and redo the current fields into soccer fields to hold regional tournaments. His comment was to "not just turn it into a Little League Park". We need another Jr. High, not a venue to rent out! Besides, maybe West Sacto Little League should be asked their opinion since they've helped contribute and make those nice playing fields as well as occasionally host baseball tournaments. Do we need synthetic turf? Do we need a tennis club that requires a membership?

These are just a few of the things brought up at the 4 hour meeting. I didn't even expand on the multi cinema movie theater complex he briefly discussed. Please, get involved! I know when I voted for the Bond measure to build a new high school, that's what I was voting for, a new high school, not a Jr. College. To me, community involvement is people being involved in the school programs, volunteering at the schools, and working hand in hand with the staff and students. What it isn't is a venue to make money to pay the debt for something we can't afford! You have the power to speak your opinion. Come to the Board meeting, this Thursday, July 14th, at 7:00pm at City Hall.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

Counterbalance

You have to hand it to those activists in southern West Sacramento. With letters to newspapers and with picket signs, they are staying right in the city council's grill, doing their best to get their message across.

Theirs is something of a reactionary, anti-growth message – they are reacting to the "growing pains" West Sacramento is experiencing in the current housing boom. Concerned about traffic, congestion, and the overall change in flavor of once-rural Southport, their mantra is "stick to the plan." They want no increased densities, no more housing units built than were envisioned by the city's general plan and its south-area specific plan.

Money talks. You can be sure local developers will keep up their pressure to whittle away at these plans and increase their home-building allowances, the citizen activists need to keep up their counter-pressure. They need to make sure the council keeps hearing the residents' side of the issue, and the residents' concerns.

There are one or two spots where at least some of the activists may be going a bit too far, though. For one thing, "increased density" is not always a bad thing. Concentrating development at the city's urban core, and to a lesser extent within the cores of each new Southport village, can be an important weapon against sprawl and in favor of a vibrant community. Building densely in selected spots can also give you the opportunity of preserving more open space in the city's outskirts and in the spaces between each new "village." So density is not always bad.

And there's no evidence to suggest, as some of the activists believe, that Mayor Christopher Cabaldon has some devious master-plan to ratchet up Southport growth.

But the main point for city leaders is this: West Sacramento's general plan and Southport Framework Plan are pretty good documents. Any changes to these plans ought to be made only if they improve the quality of life for current and future West Sacramentans. That's the only litmus test these developer requests need to pass.

Letters to the Editor

Where's the plan?

Those of us who picketed before last Wednesday's city council meeting were heartened by the honking horns and the cars who drove by several times actually reading our signs with thumbs up. If it did nothing else, perhaps it accomplished a little more public awareness that not all is peaches and cream in the little city in the shadow of the big one.

The council meeting, however, may have been another story entirely. As the Southport Framework housing density issue was set as item 20, we sat through struggles between those who have nothing and don't comprehend English, to those who have little bits, to those who have some things and love them and want to keep them in tact, to those who have quite a lot already and want a whole lot more at whatever the cost to the rest of us. Seems to be the way the world is spinning. I came away a bit speechless and sad, though I can always write!

Where are the champions of the people we read about in history; some leaders who had the foresight to find solutions before the mess is too far gone? There are brilliant documents: our constitution, the Declaration of Independence, almost anything Jefferson ever wrote and on and on. If you need a clear picture of the night and day difference of government then, when people were struggling to become independent together, and now, when the only way to get elected is your image and the money you have backing you, take a trip to Washington D.C. and visit the monuments. If you're not patriotic when you go there, you may be shocked at the feelings you bring home.

The issues in Southport about population density are not issues with our new neighbors who move in to their new villages. And we're very happy that Mr. Loffman has voiced his approval of the place we've always loved -- too bad the secret's out. The issue is simply with broken promises written into the Southport Framework which are crowding those of us who truly love wide open spaces. Parks are nice for people with kids, but we used to be able to take a nice walk or horseback ride down the street to visit neighbors and watch a beautiful sunset from our porches. It is no longer safe; well, maybe a few hours on Sunday afternoon when it's too hot to ride. Traffic is fast and furious through our streets now, with little or no respect for pedestrians, kids on bikes, animals or the disabled: if you're not in a car, get out of my way. Ten stoplights down Jefferson Boulevard will not fix that; as soon as drivers escape the controls, they floor it. The myriad of semi trucks that flow at a continual, noisy, fast pace are only going to double with the 1,400 new houses already slated for the coming year. They're just chomping at the bit to have the Jefferson construction cones lifted so they can storm Southport yet again. That is over 100 homes per month people, which could equal 200 or more cars!

Wouldn't it be nice to know our leaders had a workable plan to uphold? They did, but big money is changing their direction and they're asking us to like it, with no visible benefits. Not!

Think about it and then let your voice be heard.

Summer Movie Preview II

Holy Moly! The summer's only half over and there's still a bunch of rich, tasty cinematic goodness to be had. Take a gander at some of the films that'll be hitting your local multiplex in the very near future:

JULY

Bad News Bears — Remake of the '70s classic. Billy Bob Thornton plays the coach of a motley crew of Little Leaguers. Oooooo! I hope they win the Big Game! (July 22)

The Island — Ewan McGregor and Scarlett Johansson star as inhabitants of The Island, the last uncontaminated place on the planet. The pair discover that their idyllic world holds a terrible secret. Everyone on The Island is a clone to be used as "spare parts" for their original selves. (July 22)

Ewan McGregor and Scarlett Johansson in "The Island"

The Aristocrats — Documentary about the filthiest joke in the world. "The Aristocrats" is a joke that standup comics tell to each other. Although the joke stays pretty much the same, the trick is for a comic to make the joke his own, while one-upping the previous comic who told it. (July 29)

Must Love Dogs — Diane Lane plays a divorced preschool teacher who vows never to date again. Her sister places a personal ad in the paper saying that responses come from people who "must love dogs." John Cusack answers the ad. Diane Lane borrows a dog. Sparks presumably ensue. (July 29)

AUGUST

The Dukes of Hazzard — Jessica Simpson in Daisy Dukes and a pink bikini. OK. You got me. I'm there. (Aug. 5)

Jessica Simpson in "The Dukes of Hazzard"

Valiant — Animated film from Disney about messenger pigeons during World War II. A little runt named Valiant (voice of Ewan McGregor) dreams of being a member of the Royal Homing Pigeon Service. Despite his size, he shows his peers that he has the right stuff. (Aug. 19)

The 40-Year-Old Virgin — Comedy co-written and starring Steve Carell ("The Daily Show," "The Office") and co-written and directed by Judd Apatow ("Freaks and Geeks"). Carell is, well, what the title says: a 40-year-old virgin. He collects action figures. When his co-workers discover he's a virgin, they make it their mission to get him a woman, while Carell makes every effort to avoid them. (Aug. 19)

The Brothers Grimm — Director Terry Gilliam ("Brazil," former Monty Python member) offers a twisted fairy tale starring Matt Damon and Heath Ledger as two brothers who claim they can exorcise demons and end up doing battle with Monica Bellucci. Some guys have all the luck. (Aug. 26)

CELEBRITY extra

by Evelyn Green

Q: Whatever happened to Angie Harmon, who played one of the assistant district attorneys on "Law & Order"? Has she given up doing television or any other kind of acting since she got married a few years ago? — Rochelle E.

A. Angie Harmon has not given up her acting career, but does intend to focus on films. Her next feature is "Fun With Dick and Jane," with Jim Carrey and Tea Leoni. The movie is a remake of the 1977 comedy that starred George Segal and Jane Fonda. Jay Leno had an uncredited part in the original film as Jane Fonda's pool man.

In her private life, Harmon and her husband, former New York Giants football star Jason Sehorn, have just given 20-month-old daughter, Finley Faith, a little sister, Avery Grace.

Q. I would like to know why NBC is canceling two of my favorite shows, "Fear Factor" and "Scrubs." Thank you. — Brenda A.

A. NBC says neither of these shows has been canceled. They just won't appear in the first half of the new 2005-2006 schedule. They are slated to return in the second half of the season, possibly as replacements for new shows that fail.

In the meantime, look for "Surface," a series about a creature discovered in the ocean depths starring Lake Bell ("Boston Legal") to air in "FF's" slot on Monday nights.

Q. My wife and I recently saw a program about the revelation of Deep Throat's identity (as former FBI honcho W. Mark Felt), and we remembered that Diane Sawyer — who worked for Richard Nixon — was once suspected of being (Deep Throat). That raised our next question: How did she ever get to marry a liberal like Mike Nichols? — William C.

A. In the case of these bedfellows, politics is an irrelevant factor.

Diane Sawyer

Sawyer, who was a press aide to President Nixon while he was in the White House and then followed him into exile to help him prepare his memoirs, and Nichols, a well-known supporter of Democratic candidates, are intellectually well-matched and also share an appreciation for the arts. And, most important, their families and friends say they love each other.

Q. I have two questions about Lindsay Lohan that no one I know seems able to answer. First, did she ever work in a movie or television show with Bill Cosby? Second, was she in a relationship with Aaron Kutscher? Thanks for your answers. — Marianne McL.

A. Lindsay Lohan ("Herbie: Fully Loaded") shared a TV screen with Bill Cosby when she was doing Jell-O commercials with him.

If you're referring to Ashton Kutcher (the upcoming "The Guardian"), who is currently Demi Moore's main man, the answer is no. Lohan did, however, date pop star Aaron Carter ("The Princess Diaries") for a while.

THE CHOPPING BLOCK

by Philomena Corradeno

AND THE SECRET INGREDIENT IS ... MUSTARD

Whether you're grilling outdoors or cooking in the kitchen, vegetables are as important to your well-being in summer as they are in cooler times. Sometimes the family is happy with a burger or hot dog on a bun and call that a meal. But nutrition doesn't take a vacation. Here, then, are two dishes rich with veggies, which you'll want to add to your summer menu.

Grilled Asparagus and New Potatoes go well with meat, poultry or fish, and need little preparation and cooking time. Mustard is the secret ingredient that gives the vegetables a zippy flavor. Tuna tossed with mixed greens makes a refreshing, colorful main dish with tomatoes, bell pepper and onion. Here again mustard provides a unique taste twist.

GRILLED ASPARAGUS AND NEW POTATOES

- 1 pound small red potatoes, scrubbed and quartered
- 1/4 cup water
- 1/4 cup French's Sweet 'n Zesty Mustard or Classic Yellow mustard
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 3 tablespoons minced fresh dill weed
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1 pound asparagus, washed and trimmed

1. Place potatoes and water in shallow microwave-safe dish. Cover and microwave on HIGH 8 minutes or until potatoes are crisp-tender, rearranging once. Drain. (Or, cook gently in boiling water on the stove top until just fork-tender; drain.)

2. Combine mustard, oil, dill weed, lemon juice and peel, and pepper. Brush mixture on potatoes and asparagus. Place vegetables in grilling basket. Grill over medium-high heat 8 minutes or until potatoes and asparagus are fork-tender, turning and basting often with mustard mixture. Makes 4 servings.

LEMON HONEY DIJON TUNA SALAD

- 1 (12-ounce can tuna packed in water, drained)
- 8 cups mixed salad greens
- 1 medium green bell pepper, diced
- 1 medium tomato, diced
- 1/4 cup sliced red onion
- 1/2 cup reduced-fat vinaigrette salad dressing
- 2 to 3 tablespoons French's Honey Dijon mustard
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel

Arrange tuna, salad greens, bell pepper, tomato and onion on serving platter. Thoroughly mix vinaigrette, mustard, lemon juice and lemon peel. Pour mixture over greens and gently toss. Makes 4 main-dish servings.

Pascoe of the city's redevelopment department.

Sergeant Rich Molloy of the West Sacramento Police Department said a few of the motels generated a whole lot of police calls.

"Out of about 26 on West Capitol Avenue, you have about three or four with difficulty (meeting standards)," he said. "We've been renting rooms posing as (a citizen) wanting to rent a room for the night, and we've found drug paraphernalia, sheets that are dirty and torn – it's fairly egregious."

Krishna Reddy, president of the West Sacramento Motel/Hotel Association and operator of Flagstone Motel, told the council the ordinance was not needed.

"I don't see that there is any problem," he said. "The adoption of this ordinance from Oakland – they brought this here just like a bombshell on West Capitol. We are willing to make some changes to make West Sacramento a better place."

John Collins of Welcome Grove motel ridiculed some of the proposed ordinance's restrictions – such as a requirement that motels check a renter's identification, limited to certain types of ID such as passports or driver's licenses. Other types of ID might, in the future, be approved by City Manager Toby Ross.

"What about state ID cards? Photo green cards? Will you need to provide the city manager's home number so we can call him and ask?"

A consensus of the council directed city staff to re-start negotiations on the proposed ordinance – but did not indicate that the council planned to back off the issue entirely.

French-Fried Onion Rings

Onion rings are wonderfully versatile; pile them on your favorite grilled meat — they'll add a whole new dimension.

PREP: 10 minutes
COOK: 5 minutes per batch
MAKES: 4 accompaniment servings

- 1 jumbo onion (1 pound), cut into 1/4-inch-thick slices
- Vegetable oil for frying
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

1. Separate onion slices into rings. In 4-quart saucepan, heat 2 inches oil over medium heat until temperature reaches 370 F on deep-fat thermometer.

2. Pour milk into large bowl. In ziptight plastic bag, mix flour and salt. Dip one-fourth of onion rings in milk. With tongs, transfer to flour mixture, shake to coat.

3. Drop coated onion rings into hot oil; fry until golden brown, 5 to 7 minutes. With slotted spoon, transfer to paper towels to drain. Repeat dipping, coating, and frying with remaining onion rings. Serve immediately.

INDEPENDENT-LEADER FRIDAY, MARCH 21, 1924

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS

The Sacramento river registered 3 feet 11 inches, United States gauge at the Southern Pacific bridge yesterday. This is an extraordinary showing for the stream at this time of the year, and although many people begin to fear the results, nothing in the way of disaster should be anticipated for there is lots of time yet in which crops may be saved. A dispatch from Woodland dated March 20th goes to show that it has not been unusual for a great deal of rain to be precipitated even during the month of April, as shown in the following:

The diary of Howard Berger, local laboring man, might offer encouragement to farmers. Berger's notebook shows that the month of April in 1896, twenty-eight years ago, was productive of heavy rainfall.

On the 5th, Easter Sunday, it rained steadily from midnight until 9 o'clock the following morning. It drizzled, Berger's notes continue, until noontime and then rained hard again until midnight. "Lots of water."

On April 23d, the diary shows, there was quite a storm of wind and rain. In the afternoon and evening rain fell in torrents.

On April 24th the rain stopped, but the gauge showed a downpour of 3.25 inches in twenty-four hours.

On April 25th, Berger's notes read, a big shower fell in the afternoon, accompanied by heavy peals of thunder.

Berger, who has been a close observer for a half century, believes that Jupiter Pluvius will yet show himself a "good fellow" and help develop good crops this season.

No crops in West Sacramento are suffering so far and alfalfa is showing a wonderful growth, especially that which has been planted more than a year ago. The river pump in the West Sacramento district is working night and day to fill the canals and ditches throughout the district. From these canals farmers are at liberty to take all the water they need as provided in their contracts of purchase.

Last Wednesday afternoon a number of Mexican laborers on their way to the Sutter Basin in a Dodge automobile, were upset at death curve, Fifth and Anne streets. The driver reached the curve at too high a speed and was unable to negotiate the turn. The car was badly dented and one of the Mexicans had an arm broken. These were all the casualties in the wreck.

James Foley of San Francisco has been a visitor at the Everaert home in West Sacramento since last Sunday. Foley is a delegate to the building convention in Sacramento and will remain for several days yet.

Billy Dupzyk barely missed a serious accident in Sacramento last Sunday evening when he was run over by Mickey Williams (Yellow Flyer). Dupzyk had just come out of the chop suey joint on Third street and being loaded with a good meal he failed to observe the flyer coming down from I street until it was too late. He tried to dodge the juggernaut but was caught by the hub of the front axle and laid out for the rear wheel to pass over him. Mickey Williams, recognizing that he had nearly killed somebody, stopped within ten feet and took Dupzyk to his home where he was confined to his bed for two days.

Before Judge Barry on St. Patrick's Day, John Desantis and his father-in-law, Sam Davis, pleaded guilty to having in their possession a number of wild geese that had been killed out of season. With Leondina Desantis they had been caught by Game Warden Roy E. Ludlum in the West Sacramento district. When they appeared before Judge Barry they pleaded guilty and were each fined $50.00, which they paid immediately. Leondina Desantis being under age was held to appear before the juvenile court in Woodland next Monday.

The Washington Star Club beat the Chevrolet team at a baseball game last Saturday by a score of 27 to 0 at the ball grounds located at Twenty-eighth and C streets. It was simply a runaway game wherein the local boys showed they knew something about baseball and could play any team of its size in Sacramento. The boys have now secured their baseball caps and are extremely proud of them. Next Saturday they will play a team from Troop 7 of the Boy Scouts at the same place and expect to make another dash like they did last Saturday.

Sheriff Monroe was a visitor in Washington and West Sacramento yesterday on official business.

Miss Flora Williams of Washington spent the week-end in East Sacramento as the guest of Mrs. Robert Gibbs.

Mrs. A. H. Sanchez of Pleasanton is a visitor at the home of her son in Riverbank and expects to stay for a period of two weeks or more.

Five homes are now in the course of construction in Riverbank and in the near future several more will be started. A building era is expected during the coming summer in this popular district.

After spending the past month in the vicinity of Santa Rosa as the guest of friends and relatives, Mrs. H. B. Buckingham and granddaughter, Jean Holmes, returned to Washington.

Mrs. Lem Butters left yesterday for Richmond to be in attendance at the funeral services of her father, J. H. Middleton.

After spending the week-end visiting with friends and relatives in Hanford, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Eugene returned to their home.

P. A. Hart, who has been spending the week-end in Washington visiting with friends, returned to his home in Verona.

Mrs. Sarah Evans and son, Alfred Evans, who have been occupying the Davis cottage on Second street, have now removed to the Brown place on E street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis have moved back into their home on Second street.

Blair Manchester has returned to his home in Washington after spending the week-end in Carson City, Nev., as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brulin.

Extensive improvements have been made on the property of Mrs. Jane Buckingham.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Todhunter last Saturday night celebrated their thirtieth wedding anniversary with a banquet and party at their Washington home. Several friends of the Todhunters attended the affair.

Miss Bernice Butters, who has been spending the past week visiting with friends and relatives in Oak Park, returned to Washington.

Miss Georgia Mathena is rapidly recovering from the effects of an operation she recently underwent at the White Hospital in Sacramento.

Several residents of Washington attended a St. Patrick's dinner held at the home of Miss Victoria Lascano in Oak Park, last Monday night. The evening was spent in playing mah jongg, and a radio concert also entertained the guests. Those present from Washington were: Miss Marguerite Moser, Glenn Baglin, Willit Baglin, Clarence Moser and Blair Manchester. Oother guests were Mrs. L. Lascano, Mrs. J. Barney, Miss Josie Lascano, Miss Adella McCurdy and H. G. White of Oak Park.

The following visitors attended the Washington grammar school last Tuesday from Woodland: Miss Harriett Lee, county superintendent of schools; Miss J. Armstrong and Miss L. Stewart, supervisors of music and English of the county schools. At noon a waffle dinner was served to the teachers and visitors. Mrs. I. K. Manchester was an invited guest to the luncheon.

RIVERBANK MAY GET GAS SUPPLY, BUT MORE SIGNATURES ARE NECESSARY ON PETITION

Definite decision has not been made by the Pacific Gas & Electric officials whether a gas extension supply will be given to Riverbank.

Already 85 signatures have been turned in to the corporation asking that a main be extended to the district, but it appears that a greater number of signatures must be secured to warrant the extension.

The experience the corporation has had in Washington has been a warning against advancing the supply without pledges being secured from consumers. Although 257 homes signified their intention to install gas consuming cooking utensils only 48 have as yet installed the necessary appliances in Washington.

The distance to be covered for the extension to Riverbank is a little over a mile, or exactly 5,300 feet. In addition to that 13,500 feet extra would be required to pipe the town and that would cost in the neighborhood of $18,000.

Many of the home owners in Riverbank are anxious to secure the supply but there are others who seem to be indifferent and who do not seem to care whether they may have gas for cooking or not.

The state railroad commission insists that the extension must be warranted by the number of consumers who express a willingness to use a supply and so far the residents of Riverbank have not come forward in sufficient number to make the necessary pledges.

Engineers of the Pacific Gas & Electric Company are not going to extend the main from Washington. The tap will be made on the state highway along the road leading from Riverbank into the West Sacramento district and it is here that the difficulty lies. The engineers claim that it will be shorter to make the installation in this way rather than extend the pipe line that now runs through Washington.

Gas stoves have been installed in all the houses that are now in use at the West Sacramento camp grounds and this has materially aided in securing a supply for Washington.

Ladies who are already using gas for their household purposes in Washington are urging their friends to do likewise.

RUINED MOTORS FOUND BY CONSTABLE AND SHERIFF

In the West Sacramento district between headquarters and the Caledonia Farms in the bend of the road west of headquarters yesterday there was found by Constable Buckingham and Deputy Sheriff Robbins of Sacramento two ruined electric motors partly buried in the sand.

A lady living in the neighborhood gave the officers word that two men had been camping at the place during the past two weeks and having a truck they made frequent visits to outside points.

The motors were found robbed of all copper wire and copper connections and showed no evidence of where they had been taken from.

Last summer a number of thefts of motors and pumps were committed along the river as far south as Isleton but Constable Buckingham said yesterday that the motors found in the sand appeared that they had lately been taken from some shop or factory in Sacramento.

When the officers arrived at the camp the burglars evidently had beaten a hasty retreat for a fire was found still burning and potatoes that had been made ready for the pot were still standing about to be placed for cooking.

The officers do not expect the culprits to return for evidently they had been tipped off that a raid was about to be made on their camp.

The camp is located in a clump of junglewood and is not easily found without going to considerable trouble.

LOCAL REGISTRATION SLOW

Less than half the voters of the first supervisor district which includes Washington, Riverbank, West Sacramento, Freeport and Clarksburg have registered.

Constable Buckingham and Mrs. George at the Post Office are ready to receive all registrations.

RESPECTED RESIDENT OF FREEPORT CALLED AT RIPE AGE

Jose Jacinto, a respected resident of Freeport during the past fifty years, passed to his death last Tuesday, March 18th, after a lingering illness lasting several weeks.

At his death he was seventy-one years, four months and seventeen days old and leaves to mourn him a large family of relatives, besides his wife, Rosa Jacinto.

Jacinto had been a farmer in the Freeport district and raised a large family, being the father of Mrs. M. Freitas, Joseph, Manuel and Frank Jacinto, Mrs. Fagunes of Freeport, Mrs. M. Marx and Mrs. M. Fernandez of Sacramento. He was a brother of Mrs. M. Azevedo of Clarksburg and the late M. F. Jacinto and Anton Jacinto.

Jacinto was a native of the Azores Islands but came to Yolo County in the early days when floods were frequent in this section of the state. He was an industrious farmer, a fond husband and a kind father.

His funeral was held from his home this forenoon, thence to the Catholic Church at Freeport, where a requiem mass was celebrated for his soul. Interment was in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

A large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends attended his funeral accompanying him to his last resting place.

The immediate cause of death was pneumonia.

MARTY FINED $500 AND IMHOFF $1,000

D. Marty, 82-year-old Yolo County man, who pleaded guilty in the federal court last week to manufacturing illicit liquor at his place at Sixth and G streets, Washington, was sentenced yesterday to pay a fine of $500 by Judge John S. Partridge.

Martin Imhoff, Marty's son-in-law, was fined $1,000.

Testimony developed at the trial indicated that Imhoff was the possessor of a quantity of wine and jackass brandy found by Federal Agents W. W. Greer and L. T. Plant in a woodshed on the premises occupied by Marty and Imhoff.

"As far as Imhoff is concerned," said Judge Partridge, "I am satisfied the jackass brandy was his and that he was selling it."

FIRE COMMISSIONERS' ELECTION TO BE HELD ON APRIL 7TH

So far no candidates have announced themselves for the positions of fire commissioners for the coming year.

The incumbents are Dave Barry, Ray Peek and William Bartle, but Bartle has lately left town to settle permanently in Sparks, Nevada.

In all probability the first two will be candidates to succeed themselves, but the third member has not yet announced his candidacy. The volunteer fire department is in excellent condition at the present writing and is better equipped now to handle a blaze than at any time in the past. The department has been motorized and is thoroughly equipped with chemical apparatus and a hose wagon that was purchased last Christmas.

It is an important thing for the property owners of the community that competent men be elected as fire commissioners because on previous occasions several filled the places who devoted little of their time and attention to the business of the department. This cannot be said of the commissioners who have held office during the past year.

NO PICNIC AT STATE FARM THIS COMING MONTH

Picnic day at the University Farm, Davis, will not be held this year because of the danger of foot and mouth disease. This decision was reached recently by the Picnic Day Committee upon the recommendation of various members of the faculty.

With picnic day but a month off it is highly improbable that the quarantined areas will be freed by that time, and until they are there is some danger to the herds and flocks at the Farm. Not only that, but there is danger of spreading the disease over the state. It would be difficult to keep people from the banned areas from coming to picnic day, and their contact with those from other parts of the state might spread the disease. Even though the plans were well under way it was thought advisable to discontinue them.

BETROTHAL OF DR. J. E. HARBINSON TO SAN FRANCISCO GIRL IS TOLD

Miss Spellman is a member of one of California's pioneer families. She is a graduate of the Notre Dame College, San Francisco.

Dr. Harbinson is the son of Mrs. J. Harbinson of Sacramento, and also belongs to one of the city's oldest families. He is a University of California Medical School graduate, and has been connected with the Woodland clinic for some months.
